My dear Miss Weston

We hope you will receive in due course of steamer the Box from Lork - it is small we are sorry to say, but we are a poor people compared to England's inhabitants and where they give pounds we must content ourselves with shillings
- still we might work more things than we do - We had hoped in addition to the Box for Boston, to have had one for Dr.
Douglas, but in that also we have been disappointed - we have only sent him a small parcel enclosed in the Box for you which you will kindly forward to him by first opportunity - we are greatly pleased to hear that the Cloud ladies of New York have exerted themselves and are gladly aid them by sending a triple this A.D. It seems to us very good to have a cloud editor such as F. D. and we feel that he should be supported - You of course know constant need of funds and are naturally of opinion that you can spend them to the best advantage otherwise you would alter your ways, but Providence observes more favorably than he has got - it shows an adherence to principle that pleases us, that Mr. D. is a friend yet as great things and grand, still best at Boston and thereby produce more money for the cause, all wished that our best things should p. where they would do most good - Last year we hope in addition to send him a boy and who now some are beginning to worse - there is no talk of a Cork Bazaar just now as we hope to have our next circular sent out next Spring - but alas, our good intentions often only serve as pavements for a certain place - We thought this year we could do something good - but one family who are most beloved, had few and we were all of us, constantly away for four months and had friends who had not been here for years over with us, which kept us occupied in an unusual way - so I hope no one will work the lips for all our expectations - We have heard no late complaints of the Standard - it is natural that Mr. Gay should put effects which many of today could not admire and I would not think of saying any thing to you if it had not exerted a bad influence on the Bazaar.

Did you admire the tone of H. C. Wright's letter about Miss Brewer? I dare say some did, but I think it is a pity to have such letters made public. Henry cannot be moderate and I wish he was told so from his friend Isobel J. Miss B. seemed to take a political pleasure in praising Gen. Taylor and under the circumstances was it not natural? I think she will come right but I know by experience, one cannot always see things at once, as they ought to be seen - our ideas of right very constantly sway on what may be considered theoretical subjects
- But from her blame her very much, F. D. and to say I never blamed Slaveholders enough - when they are kind and good to their slaves, I cannot look on them as wicked men tho' I think Slavery is as wrong as it can be - but there is a fear in some people's minds of altering ancient ways - as a clasp they are men who are strong withoutly, but how can a man be kind-hearted and affectionate and also cruel and wicked Slavery is an awful thing and nothing can be said too bad for all the crimes it leads to - I hope you will not think I am a very degenerate being - but I sometimes think if I were a native of the South with a great many dependent on me and that I could would do all I could for the slaves but had not courage enough to venture to free them I would not be converted by being told I was wicked and sinful. I am inclined to think great riches are not lawful, yet some very rich men are very good, better in many ways than those who claim at them wickedness in swallowing up the earnings of the poor. But do not think I am an apologist for Slavery, for I am not but on the contrary, I think there are many men who lead useful lives in their country and even forward all schemes for the advancement of mankind, who have the love of power so strong within them, that if they were at the South, would make tyrannical slaveholders irresponsible power is an awful thing. The fugitive Slave Bill has had an effect, I dare say, little apprehended by those who brought it forward - even if it had not been unsatisfactory, my brother remarked, there would not have been so much said about it. There is much to be hoped from it, for no one sees think it can be allowed long. There is such an outcry against it - it is very awful as it is and at times you must all feel very angry and indignant - There is a list given of the Contributors to the Bay and, but if you have not room in your Gazette, do not mind publishing the names as we intend to do so in our next circular in hope thereby of increasing the list. Mind not do not offend any Library Bills indeed we feel shameful against receiving older ones

- and shall all be glad if you do not send them until next year when more things will be sent we hope.
We have only put a list of the articles in the box marked for the Custom House at about a third of the prices we wish you to put for them - We shall pay all the expenses on G. D's parcel - The Dublin things which go in our Box. were sent us by Richard Webb.

My aunts have not seen you friends for a long time - in fact we do not wonder for there are such a number of subjects which interest Mrs. C. that would be greek to our aunts. They were greatly struck by the beauty of several of your family - Mrs. C. and one of her daughters especially - We see that Henry Bay Brown has had to leave in great haste - I suppose H. C. W. is now quite sorry J. D's freedom was bought and if one did not consider him in the case, his being taken back again would do a bad deal for the cause - but the hearts of his friends would bleed for him and I cannot say I am sorry -

And now with the best wishes of all the Anti-Slavery friends to whom their little efforts are considered as child's play compared to yours for one day.

I remain yours very truly Sarah Jennings
friend and co-secretary
